

I am commenting because I am afraid that the service that some radio providers supply to the community may be cut off if LPFM broadcasters are given priority over translator stations. This is a significant concern to me since my preferred style of music, talk, and information is not typically provided by a local station. The stations that provide this valuable resource to me broadcast nationally and cover my area through translator stations. I know of numerous people that I am friends with that would be sorely disappointed if stations like Air 1 were taken off the air because of LPFM broadcasting. We as a community would also miss the family centered programming that stations like Air 1 provide. They provide a significant service that allows the family to enjoy it without the threat of objectionable material. The local community would also suffer without the option of this style of radio, which would not allow them to listen to a radio. Thank you for your concern.
